Alic Hassan's Opponent to Complete
Training in Local Gymn—Turner
Wrestles With Bear.
Watter Keegan, the Irish middleweight champion and his manager wired they will arrive to-day to complete training for the match with Alie Hassen, which takes place next Monday night at the City Auditorium as one of the star bouts.
Keegan is said to be one of the fastest little men in the wrestling game, and has defeated such men as Eugene Trembley, Con Albright. Jack Jordan, Archie Parker, Ernest Pineau and many others well known to local fans.

In the Turk he meets a tough, rugged customer, one that is willing to mix from the start, and although a forgiver, is well up to the catch-as-catch-can wrestling style.

Joe Turner is training hard for his bout with Fritz Hanson, and can be seen on Broad Street Road near his home doing road work to perfect his wind. He has several training partners working with him daily on the mat and spends a great deal of his time wrestling with his black bear. The fans are invited to come out to his training quarters any afternoon.

They are as dry under the local option as prohibition can make them. If the law is evaded now under local option, there is no reason to believe it will be different under State-wide prohibition.

Apart from these views, if I were one of those (and there are many such), who honestly believe that all alcohol is either poisonous or injurious, I could not vote for the enabling act in the coming election; for this act, in Section IX., while prohibiting the manufacture of whiskey and brandy, permits the manufacture of wine by firms or corporations that are now manufacturing wine in the State, and also permits the manufacture of beer, containing not more than 31-2 per cent. of alcohol, by firms or corporations now manufacturing it.

This act was brought about by the forceful sentiment of those who believed that alcohol was destroying the manufacturing it.

This act was brought about by the forceful sentiment of those who effected the passage of this act by what alchemy alcohol contained in wine and beer is less destructive of virginia manhood than that which is found in whiskey and brandy. That there is less in one than in the other is no argument to him who believes that all alcohol is destructive of manhood.

A vote for this act would deny the right of any man to manufacture brandy or whiskey, and would affirmatively grant the right to those manufacturing wine and beer to continue the same and beer to continue the brandy or whiskey, and would affirmatively grant the right to any person to manufacture beer and wine, which has disgraced the contests in other States will find no pl

Passes Away at Home in Culpeper in Fifty-Fifth Year of Age-Negro Sent to Hustings Court for Felonious Assault.

PETERSBURG, VA., August 13 .- Th forgeries, suddenly disappeared night before last. He drew up two sight drafts on blanks bearing the impress of "The National Bank of Petersburg," each for $25. They were made chargeable to "expense account," and purported to have been drawn by "Gill Bros. & Co.," and were addressed to the "National Bank of Petersburg." The name of the firm was stamped in red ink as drawer of the drafts, and similarly on the back as indorsers. The address to "The National Bank of Petersburg" was in blue lnk, and the stamps used were evidently made for this special purpose. There is no such firm as Gill Bros. & Co., but there is a prominent wholesale firm in this city known as Gill Bros. Co., Inc., of which Roland B. Gill, secretary and treasurer. To each of the drafts were signed the name of Harvey L. Gill, secretary and treasurer as drawer, and Roland B. Gill, president, as indorser. The drafts were readily cashed by two merchants, who had no suspicion of anything wrong or fraudulent. Both drafts were dated and cashed after bank hours on August 11, and they were evidently the work of a swindler familiar with such business.

The swindler is described as about five feet six inches in height, about thirty-five years old; weight 145 pounds, clean shaven, light, sandy hair, neatly dressed and wearing a sailor straw hat.
